Breaking the silence around mental health. I am not good enough. I am not worthy of love. I am not smart enough. I am not successful enough. I am not slim enough. I am not pretty enough. I am one of the 1 in 4 people who suffer from mental illness. Though mental illness is at the forefront of the media today, there are still many people living in ignorance, fuelling a stigma around mental illness that still hasn't lifted.

The first thing we must do is to remove the stigma. We have to make it OK to talk about it openly, with no fear of judgement or blame or shame. Until we can talk about the issues and why they happen, those who have the capacity to fund services and training simply won't be able to see that there is any need. Then we have to find solutions.
