Lethargy or anorexia in cats, as a vaccination side-effect, usually appears as a consequence of fever. Once again, we suggest giving your cat a chance to rest, not forcing it to eat if it doesn't want to. In these cases, you can offer your cat moistened or tempered food in order to avoid dehydration or any further complication. If more than 24 hours has past and your cat still hasn't eaten, then we advise that you consult your veterinarian.
