The Court of Honor is one of these times. Now, I must say that many Troops use Courts of Honor as family nights. In this case, skits and other fun things can be included, but they should be kept separate from the formal ceremony. This is a side benefit of having the ceremony short and dense with meaning.

Planning and Running a Traditional Award Ceremony / Court ...

Court Of Honor. April 7, 2006 By Clarke Green. The court of honor is a ceremony for recognizing achievements. Don't underestimate their importance – a formal public presentation and recognition of a Scout's achievement demonstrates Scouting's aim, don't make them slapdash or off the cuff or too constrained.

Members of the naval service will find that at all points in their careers they can expect to be involved to some extent in the planning and execution of official ceremonies and social events. Protocol is a code of established guidelines on proper etiquette and precedence which, when followed, lays the foundation for a successful event. From this foundation, the host should consider the facets which make a particular situation unique, and from there, use imagination to design a memorable occasion. The most important consideration in planning should always be the comfort of one's guests. A clever host/hostess is able to reach a proper mixture of protocol and common sense that will enable guests to enjoy themselves completely. If this is accomplished, an event is truly successful.
