I bought the Zoya Factor because the kindle version was for 29 bucks and I had read a lot about the book. I usually don't prefer reading english fiction dished out by Indian authors but, I was surprised with Anuja Chauhan's writing. It was funny with well-defined characters in relatable Hinglish. In some places, the book makes you laugh out loud.

Well, Anuja Chauhan can definitely be called the Nora Roberts of India. She picks up on nuances that define India and weaves love stories around them. I love how she observes the little oddities and eccentricities of Indians and their mad mad love for cricket. Zoya and Nikhil as characters are very believable and that's where the charm lies.

The Zoya Factor written by Anuja Chauhan, with a colourful cover and an exciting blurb, promised to be "zara hatke" because it is a comedy with cricket being its central theme. That is the reason why I read and have reviewed this book. The book, written in the first person, describes how a cricket-hating ad-executive, Zoya, is forced to become a part of the Indian cricket team, not as a player nor a cheerleader nor a physiotherapist nor a psychiatrist but as a lucky charm.
